

Information Paper:

Changes to DTS Expense Lists

Summary

Implementation dates: October 13, 2017 (deletions) and TBD (all others)

A future implementation date indicates that plans remain subject to change.

The lists of selectable expenses* in the Other Expenses area of the DTS Expenses module are undergoing significant improvements including:

- A. Additions: At a date to be determined, the lists will be expanded to include more expenses the Joint Travel Regulations (JTR) allows.
- B. Alterations: At a date to be determined, DTS will add:
 - New labels to make expenses easier to understand.
 - Increased thresholds to limit pre-audit cost triggers.
- C. Deletions: In October 2017, certain expenses that the JTR does not allow were removed.

This information paper only explains the different changes. It makes no attempt to provide a complete list of all expense type selections. For full details of the available expenses for all DTS document types, see the DTA Manual, Appendix K. (See note at end of information paper.)

*Some selectable “expenses” in DTS are actually allowances (e.g., POV mileage), but DTS calls them expenses, so for simplicity, this information paper uses that term throughout.

Note: Only the lists of expenses have changed. The process for selecting them has not.

Expense Additions

About 25 expenses that the JTR allows will display in the selectable lists. They will be added to provide a more comprehensive list of reimbursable expenses. Some of them are new additions, such as Internet In-Flight, while others are expenses the JTR has always allowed, but are only infrequently used, such as a Lodging Early Check-In Fee and certain international travel fees (e.g., Immunizations/Inoculations and Passport/Visa Fees).

Expense Alterations

Some expense labels are potentially confusing. For example, while Taxi-TDY means using a taxi at the TDY location, Commercial Auto-TDY means using a rental car to and from the TDY location.

DEFENSE TRAVEL
MANAGEMENT OFFICE

Those types of ambiguous descriptions will be a thing of the past. The new expense labels for the items named above will be Taxi-TDY Area and Rental Car-To/From TDY, respectively, which is way less confusing. Other items follow suit (e.g., Parking-At the Terminal vs. Parking-TDY Area).

The second major change is not immediately obvious. DTS triggers a pre-audit flag when a legitimate expense exceeds a certain threshold amount. DoD established these thresholds over a decade ago. For example, DTS triggered a pre-audit flag when parking at the TDY location exceeded $25. That threshold will be increased to a much more reasonable $140 to be consistent with today's market.

The end results of these changes are A) the expense labels will make much more sense, and B) you should see fewer pre-audit flags.

Expense
Deletions

For some time now, the JTR has been standardizing allowable reimbursements, which led to some reimbursable expenses disappearing from the JTR. These items have been removed from the selectable lists. Other expenses with no attached cost – and therefore no allowed reimbursement, such as Prepaid Rail, Government Bus, and Passenger (No Claim) – were also removed.

In all, 20 or so items were removed, bringing the lists back into accordance with the JTR without being unduly burdensome.

Financial Note

Please understand that there are different types of expense categories.

- On the My Expenses screen, expenses are grouped into four categories, which DTS calls Expense Types. Those categories are: Mileage Expenses, Non-Mileage Expenses, Transportation Travel Expenses, and Ticketed Expenses. Dividing expenses this way helps a traveler more easily find items they need to claim. This information paper focuses on changes to the Expense Type lists.
- For financial purposes, claimable payments, including expenses, are grouped into many categories. The most common ones are Comm. Carr.-I, Comm. Carr.-C, Lodging, M&IE, Mileage, Rental Car, Ship-HHG, Transport, and Other. Financial categories are related to voucher payment, have not changed, and apart from this paragraph are not addressed in this information paper.
 - In authorizations and vouchers, DTS displays the total value of each applicable financial category in the right column of the Accounting Codes screen and at the bottom of the Trip Preview screen.

- Travelers and AOs can (and should) use the financial category totals to help double-check the accuracy of the voucher claim.
- If you need further information about the financial categories, see the DTA Manual, Appendix K.
